About Kurrajong

We began 60 years ago with the aim of meeting the needs of people with disability so they can lead a life of their choice. Today, we are a registered National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) provider and reach all communities across the Riverina and Murray regions, offering local access to creative and social programs, therapies, accommodation and respite, community access, employment readiness and supported employment.

We engage communities with what we do so that together we can change lives.

Our services are completely focused on the needs of the individual person with disability and their families.

The heart and soul of our organisation is in the communities we serve.

Our staff don't just work in a community – they are part of it.

We create connections and support in the community so our clients can live as they choose. We work to develop open, accessible and inclusive communities.

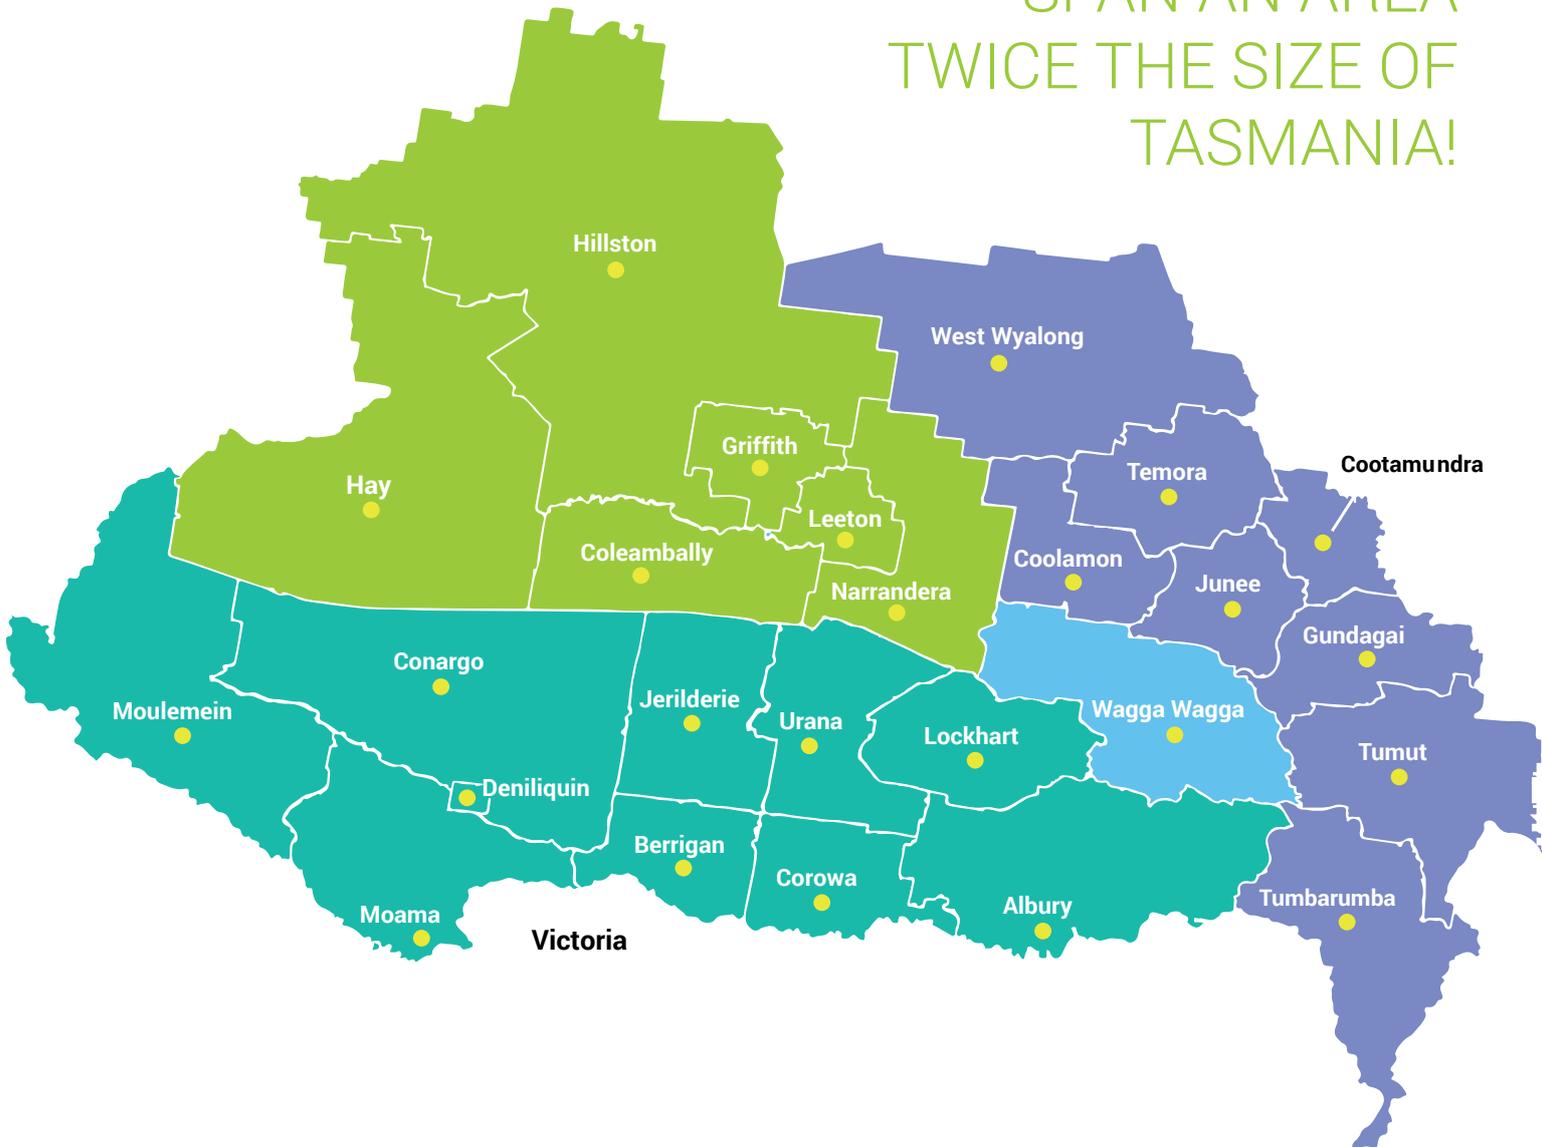

This is the essence of Kurrajong.

Understanding the NDIS

What is the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)?

The NDIS is a world leading reform for all Australians.

The Scheme’s purpose is to support people with a lifelong permanent disability to achieve their goals, helping them to realise their full potential, participate in and contribute to their community, and to exercise choice and control over their lives and their future.

The NDIS recognises that everyone’s individual circumstances, needs and goals are different. It therefore provides people with supports that are best tailored to them.

Chairman’s Report

I am pleased to report that Kurrajong has managed to grow our services in this first full year of transition into the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS). We have had very positive feedback from our clients and their families regarding our assistance in the development of their individual support plans and our provision of personal and high quality services. This feedback will greatly help us plan further improvements in Kurrajong’s service delivery for the benefit of people with disability.

From the Board’s perspective the major highlights of the past year have been:

1. Kurrajong’s successful transition to the NDIS that has been enabled by some very hard work. Our Kurrajong First Contact team has welcomed many new clients and assisted existing clients with their annual plan formulation. The Human Resource Manager and her team have successfully grown our workforce to meet the increased demand. Our Information Technology Manager and our staff have adapted our customer relations software to accurately track our service provision and enable payments to be received from government for the services and supports delivered.

2. Development of an up-to-date marketing and communications strategy with the input from consultants working closely with our new Marketing and Communications Manager and his team. The modern new look website and corporate branding reflect their endeavours.

3. The current build, and acquisition of adjacent properties to our Hildasid Community Farm in Wagga Wagga will enable us to develop innovative lifestyle activities and closer interaction between our clients and the wider community.

4. Formation of a new Board sub-committee focused on risk has assisted us to recognise and respond to the new and potential challenges brought about by the evolving NDIS environment.

5. Attendance by myself and the Vice-Chair at a recent NDIS summit in Melbourne opened our eyes to the opportunities and threats that may lie ahead. The knowledge gathered there will assist greatly as we look toward developing Kurrajong’s new strategic plan early next year.

Our Board will continue to remain alert to the challenges of increased competition, managing rapid growth, recent changes in recycling business and in the areas of supported accommodation and employment, and will continually seek improvements in all these domains.

Finally, on behalf of my fellow directors I wish to extend our sincere thanks and appreciation to our CEO, Steve Jaques and to all his magnificent, dedicated managers, staff and volunteers who have worked tirelessly to improve the quality of life for those with disability in our community. We look forward to another year assisting Kurrajong achieve its vision for people with disability to lead a life of their own choice.

Hamish Cullenward
Treasurer

“The NDIS brought about many changes to the way we operate but through our preparation and the hard work of management and staff, we remained resilient and adapted very well to the Scheme’s roll out.”

Treasurer’s Report

The transition of Kurrajong into the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) from 1st July, 2017 brought with it a great deal of uncertainty as it has for the disability sector generally. I am pleased to report, however, that Kurrajong dealt with the changes to our funding and services very well with few negative effects from the change from government block funding in advance to individualised funding in arrears.

With the uncertainty of moving into the NDIS, the Kurrajong Board had budgeted for a small surplus in financial year 2017-18 anticipating that the change in funding arrangements would likely impact cashflow, and pose possible liquidity risks.

Fortunately, the potential risk to our cashflow did not materialise and our organisation remains in a strong financial position.

The result of our strategic planning for the NDIS and our collective efforts during this transition year speaks for itself, with 2017-2018 producing a surplus of $5.3 million. However, there were a number of extra-ordinary income factors that contributed to this very positive outcome.

These included improved Supported Independent Living funding, the new Container Deposit Scheme and unbudgeted donations and bequests which all had a positive effect. NDIS funding packages also meant that Kurrajong was now able to be paid for services it has probably always provided but never had been paid to do, or for services at the new funding levels now being provided.

Strong surpluses allow us to take advantage of investment opportunities as they arise – such as the purchase of the former Willis brickworks site in central Wagga for expanded recycling, supported accommodation units in Narrandera and proposed future housing developments in Deniliquin and elsewhere.

Our management and staff performance in terms of service provision through this period of uncertainty must be commended. The NDIS brought about many changes to the way we operate but through our preparation and the hard work of management and staff, we remained resilient and adapted very well to the Scheme’s roll out and financial changes across Kurrajong’s operations.

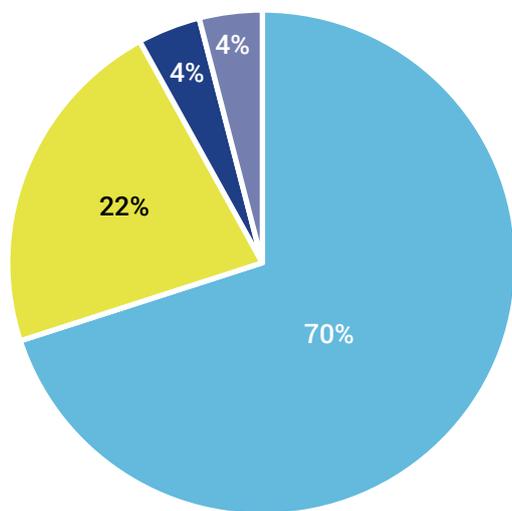

We have grown our employment with 118 new staff over the past 12 months, which is very pleasing as this new employment growth in turn supports the communities in the regions where we operate through additional employment.

While our past five years have been focused on Kurrajong’s successful transition into the NDIS and building good cash reserves to get us through this hurdle, the positive results of the past 12 months means we can now turn our focus to strategic thinking and decisions on how we can grow and invest to expand our services and supports to existing and new NDIS clients and their families.

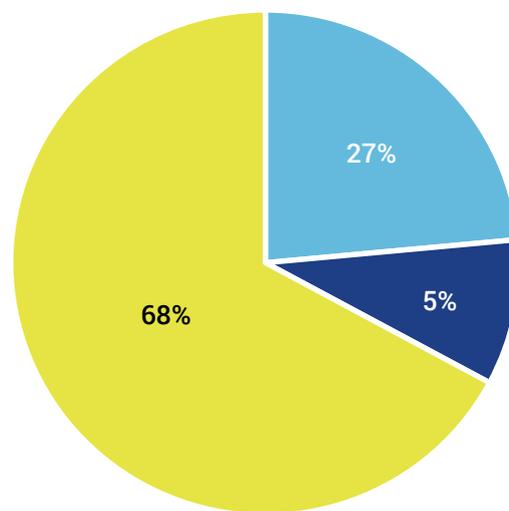

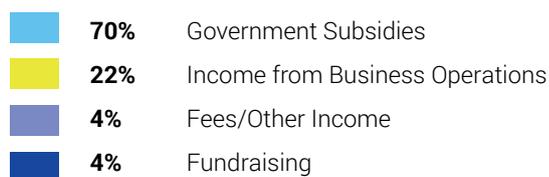

We have some exciting developments underway such as the Hildasid Community Farm project in Wagga Wagga, our new main street premises in Leeton, and proposed future supported accommodation housing opportunities. I look forward to seeing these developments build over time and deliver strong service outcomes for people with disability and their families.

"I think that the people who work for Kurrajong are basically unsung heroes."

Maleah Cottrell

Now a fun-loving three year old, Maleah Cottrell was born at just 34 weeks in foetal distress.

Due to her early arrival, she has medical issues including respiratory distress syndrome, mild cerebral palsy and childhood speech apraxia.

From her first appointment with Kurrajong Therapy Plus at nine months old, Maleah has received physiotherapy and occupational therapy, helping to improve her walking.

Maleah also sees her speech therapist to assist with her speech apraxia, which affects the way she holds her tongue and creates feeding as well as speech issues.

Beyond her therapy, Kurrajong staff also support Maleah's broader family.

"Sometimes when life has just been a little bit too hard for me, they have stepped up to support me. In a way, it's their support for me that gives Maleah the best care possible," says Maleah's mum, Alicia.

Scott Lea

Scott Lea leads a busy life. Each week his diary is filled with activities – from going bowling with his friends to playing pool at the pub, woodwork with Lifestyle Choices to volunteering at Bunnings.

While his favourite activity is drawing, Scott has also turned his hand to creating with paint, mosaic, wire and concrete at art classes with Kurrajong. He has created artworks for the Art to Crow About exhibition and Lockhart's Spirit of the Land Festival, and his work has won first prize at the Wagga Show.

Scott's NDIS plan makes it possible for him to get out and do the things he loves with one-on-one support from Kurrajong Lifestyle Choices - it also enables some short-term respite for mum, Lorraine.

"The one-on-one support is great. It's the part that makes him feel more important, doing things by himself," Lorraine said.

"Art gives Scotty a way of expressing himself."

Kevin Ritzau

For most of his life, Kevin Ritzau has had an association with Kurrajong.

Since 1971, Kevin has received various supports and taken on different jobs across Kurrajong enterprises, including trophy making, wool bagging and screen printing.

For the past 18 years, he has been a supported employee at Kurrajong Timber. A machine operator, Kevin directs staff, drives the forklift and wraps and straps timber. On the weekends he loves nothing more than going to the football where he often runs the water and tee for his beloved Kangaroos Rugby League Club.

"Kevin never stops," says Jim Seymour, Kurrajong Timber Manager. "He's always on time. He's dedicated. A true leader."

"I like coming to work. It feels like home."

Ryan Matto

Ryan Matto was a baby when he was diagnosed with Fragile X, a genetic condition that causes intellectual disability and learning challenges. Like autism, people with fragile x experience communication difficulties, social anxiety and behavioural issues.

Ryan has been supported by Kurrajong twice in his life: from five months old until he started school and again now as a 24 year old.

"When you first find out [about the diagnosis], it's a whole new world. At that time, Kurrajong were like a family," says Ryan's mum, Vicki.

Ryan's NDIS funding means he can once again access support from Kurrajong Therapy Plus, including physiotherapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy.

"Ryan gets on well with the staff and they're giving us different ideas in areas we hadn't thought of before."

Emma Ryan

Emma Ryan is a 26 year old with a full calendar. She works three days a week at Kurrajong Laundry in Narrandera. One day is for Kurrajong group activities like literacy, numeracy and team building.

On the other day, she's busy at home, assisted by Kurrajong with cleaning and meal planning. And of course, weekends are for socialising including the Sunday group dinner. Every morning and night, Emma also receives one-on-one support to help with personal care, cooking and generally maintaining her busy schedule.

Emma has been with Kurrajong for eight years. Most recently, Kurrajong supported Emma to move out of home and into her own unit, which is one of four units purpose built and owned by Kurrajong in Narrandera.

"I love living alone. I can do what I want when I want. I love making pom-poms, going for walks. I can invite friends over. I can cook spag bol. I am a good cook."

"If I didn't have Kurrajong I wouldn't have work and be living alone. I wouldn't have the confidence that I have now."

Rosie Aitken

As a person with high-functioning Asperger's, Rosie Aitken faced some unique challenges after high school. Kurrajong has helped Rosie transition to adulthood by supporting her to find employment and live independently.

Rosie completed Kurrajong's Transition to Work Program – a program to assist school leavers to learn the skills they need to gain employment. Through this program, she finished a one year Becoming a Worker Course and received one-on-one support to access work placements around Deniliquin. Kurrajong also helped Rosie access an NDIS plan, which has allowed her to secure a four-day a week paid position at Kurrajong Café in Deniliquin.

Because of her new job and her available support, Rosie recently moved into her own unit and is now able to live independently.

"Because of Kurrajong, I get to do this wonderful job."

Noel Raymond

For the past seven years, Noel Raymond has worked at Kurrajong Recycling in West Wyalong.

His duties include sorting and baling cardboard and sometimes he also helps deliver pamphlets across town.

Kurrajong staff are focused on helping Noel develop his independence. This involved helping him meet his workplace goals, assisting him to run errands and building his computer skills so he could study and sit for his learner driver's licence. They are now teaching him to drive.

"I live out of town, so right now my mum has to drive me into town. One day I'll have my licence and I'll be able to drive myself."

"It can be really hard. Kurrajong has been on the journey with us, and we have formed a really good connection. We'd be lost lost without them.."

Amelia Richardson

Amelia Richardson was 12 months old when her parents noticed her development wasn't following the same path as her older sister.

Amelia was eventually diagnosed with a rare chromosomal syndrome, thanks to the assistance of Kurrajong. Today, she is a bright six year old that loves school and is a big fan of chocolate cake.

In addition to hearing issues, Amelia has only recently learned to feed herself, is still unsteady on her feet and still learning to use the toilet. She also has medical and behavioural issues that require special attention.

Loving Amelia is easy but parenting and providing her with the care she needs takes a lot of understanding, time and attention. Through Kurrajong Therapy Plus, Amelia receives physiotherapy, speech therapy and occupational therapy and her family gets ongoing guidance and emotional support.

“The care and support Nic and our family receives is second to none.”

Nicole Matthews

Nicole Matthews has been a part of the Kurrajong community for eleven years. When Nicole was 20 years old she moved into a group home in Tatton that was designed specifically with her needs in mind.

Nicole was born with progressive cerebral palsy and epilepsy. She lived with her parents in Adelong up until her move to Wagga. As Nicole’s needs changed it became apparent that she could benefit from Kurrajong’s 24 hour Supported Living service.

Kurrajong and their dedicated support staff work closely with Nicole’s family to ensure she receives the best care and attention. Not only has Nicole settled into her group home but she also enjoys a full active and social calendar. Kurrajong’s support staff are on hand to assist Nicole to travel to Adelong to visit her family as often as she likes - this benefits Nicole greatly as she loves seeing her nieces and nephews and enjoys their antics.

Simon Doss

Two days a week, Simon Doss travels from Narrandera to attend the day program at Lifestyle Choices in Leeton.

Here, Simon spends his time making and restoring furniture, playing the Xbox and hanging out with friends. In his spare time, Simon enjoys boxing, watching his beloved Geelong Cats and St George Dragons, and volunteering at Eurell’s motorcycle and bicycle shop.

Simon enjoys a laugh and a joke with everyone. His smile is contagious, as is his laugh. Simon is always thinking of other people and likes to see them as happy as he is.

In addition to developing his skills and confidence, Kurrajong helps Simon with transport to and from Lifestyle Choices and this year helped him to move into his Kurrajong supported living unit and provides day-to-day assistance.

“Simon moved out of home in January and now gets support with housework, shopping, budgeting, gardening and catching up with his mates,” says Rosemary Orr, Team Leader of Kurrajong Supported Living in Narrandera.

“Kurrajong makes me feel happy.”

Thank You for Working With Us

The reporting year has been one of change and achievements.

Change

To ensure we continue to change lives in an environment without funding for equipment and capital works under the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS), the Kurrajong Board made the decision to cease conducting Kurrajong's annual art unions. The art unions have required increasing resources against falling returns. Our efforts will now focus on other events such as the Kurrajong annual race day.

In ceasing the running of the Kurrajong art unions we acknowledge the outstanding support we have received from Allen Thomas and Daniel Martellozzo and staff of the Thomas Bros Group, management and staff of Myer Wagga, and the many volunteers and supporters who have been involved over a long period of time. Our ability to sustain the art unions for so long has been largely due to this support. Thank you to everyone.

The Kurrajong Foundation team look forward to helping build the future for people with disability with enthusiasm and with the confidence that the community will continue to partner with us to change lives.

Lasting Gifts

During the year a number of bequests were received from benefactors who had made provision in their Wills to Kurrajong thereby enabling us to continue to change lives.

In some cases, we were fortunate to be able to thank people personally in advance where they had told us they were making provision in their Wills for Kurrajong, which has been a truly humbling and rewarding experience.

Give Quietly

We often have donors who request that we maintain their confidentiality when they financially assist us to carry out our work. We respect their request.

These donors however know how much we appreciate their support and how it helps us achieve our goals of assisting and supporting babies, children and adults with disability. Despite not wanting any recognition or publicity, such supporters look forward to updates on the projects they choose to support and remain passionately interested in the outcomes our projects deliver for people.

Committees and Volunteers

Our small but effective Kurrajong Race Day Committee continued to work towards our Hildasid Community Farm project in 2018, producing another outstanding result. Like our sponsors they are delighted to see Stage 2 of the project (the building phase) come to fruition in the knowledge they have played a significant part.

We are proud and appreciate your efforts and the generous loyal supporters who help us build on the success of this event year after year. Thank you so much for ensuring an enjoyable day for the community.

In Kind Supporters

We are fortunate to have many supporters who generously give goods and services without charge to benefit our events or service programs. Ultimately all such support helps us change lives and we are extremely appreciative of support in this way.

Thank You

A very special thank you to everyone who contributed to our team during this time of change and challenges. The nature of our work often involves out of business hours commitment and to those who have responded in any way I am truly grateful.

A Fitting Tribute

After 47 years service to people with disability and Kurrajong Michael Kennedy OAM retired from the Board and his position as Chairman at our 2017 Annual General Meeting.

Wagga Wagga City Council recognised the outstanding service to Kurrajong and to community organisations that Michael had freely given by honouring him with a prestigious Mayoral Reception attended by civic and community leaders, family and close friends, and Kurrajong representatives.

Michael was awarded Life Membership of Kurrajong in 1997, the Order of Australia Medal in 2000, induction into the Wagga Wagga City Walk of Honour in 2009 and became a Patron of Kurrajong on his retirement from the Board.

Working tirelessly for no financial or personal gain to provide whatever assistance or services have been needed by people with disability and their families, Michael showed the same humility he is known for at the Mayoral Reception thanking others, and in particular thanking his wife Trena and his family for their support.

A sterling effort Michael.
